TOUR DESCRIPTION:

Italy is the homeland of the Mediterranean diet and one of basic products is oil. Each region makes its own oil but here in Lazio there is a road that tells its origins and its features. The road of the oil of Canino D.O.P. winds through the heart of Alta Tuscia Viterbese, in an area devoted to olive cultivation for three millennia. Discover this territory, will also give great surprises to nature lovers who can get lost among centuries-old olive trees and beautiful landscapes, feel the atmospheres of villages where time has stopped, where the pleasure of good food becomes an art. The Evo Oil Tour begins by first arriving at the village of Tuscania, already inhabited by the Etruscans but which today has a medieval aspect, with some beautiful churches including the famous "film church": the church of San Pietro which was one of the sets of the film Romeo and Juliet by Zeffirelli in 1968. Comfortably seated on our bus we will have the chance to admire the ancient walls of the medieval city center and then stop at the bus parking and walk shortly to reach the view point to admire the Basilica of San Pietro and Santa Maria Maggiore and take some pictures. Our guide will introduce the history of the two Basilica and their facades. We will then continue our bus tour along the oil road admiring the countryside and the olive groves before reaching an oil mill. We will learn how olives are harvested and the oil production processes, and we will be able to appreciate the quality of this product with an oil tasting combined with some local goodies as local ham, and two varieties of local Pecorino cheese. Then let yourself be enchanted by the typical cuisine with one of the main course of their culinary tradition. At the end of the tour we will return back to the port.  the order of the visit could be reverted Lunch will be served near the oil mill or in a restaurant along the road
